ORGANO™ Expands and Enhances OGX Body Management Line
With FENIX XT™ Advanced Energy Drink Mix and FENIX DX™ Advanced Detox Support

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA – September 2, 2017 – ORGANO™ -- at the forefront of healthier lifestyle trends, including consumers’ migration to foods providing more nutrients per calorie -- today announced two key additions to its highly popular OGX Body Management program line. The latest additions – FENIX XT™ Advanced Energy Drink Mix and FENIX DX™ Advanced Detox Support – are available in Canada and the U.S. beginning today. XT and DX can be purchased in specially designed promotional packs. Sales of individual products start October 1 through the Organo website and Independent Distributor network.

The OGX Body Management program line, which debuted in September 2016 with the OGX FENIX™ Nutritional Shake Mix, has become the fastest selling product family in Company history. The addition of the Advanced Energy Drink Mix and Advanced Detox Support transforms the product line into an integrated system providing: optimal nutrition to support lean muscle development and weight management; a natural boost of hydration and energy when needed; and detoxification support to help remove the residual effects of stress, pollution and poor nutrition. Organo’s popular supplement products - Organic Ganoderma Lucidum, Ganoderma Lucidum Mycelium, and Organic Spore Powder – provide additional lifestyle support and complete the OGX system.

FENIX-XT is a refreshing mango peach-flavored powered energy drink mix that can be added to water or other beverages for a beneficial pick me up. XT can help support energy, stamina, focus, and has beneficial antioxidants. It is lower sugar, caffeine and taurine than other energy drinks, avoiding the ‘crash’ or ‘jitters’ often associated with energy drink use. This product can be used prior to a workout to help with energy, and contains Rhodiola, which is used by Olympic athletes to support stamina and endurance.
